MANAGER & SUPPORTER TRAINING GUIDE

For GSLs, AGSLs, DCs, DDCs, CCs, DCCs, YCs, District Scouters, County Scouters, Scout Active Support Managers, DESCs, DSNCs, ADCs and ACCs

Version 1.0 (September 2021)

Introduction

All adults in scouting have the opportunity to develop their skills and knowledge through the scout association's national adult training scheme.

The scheme is designed to support you as a volunteer, so the training provided is relevant and tailored to what you do in scouting.

We recognise there may be learning and skills you have gained through your work and life experiences, and the scheme is designed to complement these with further opportunities to enhance your individual skills.

Our training also provides you with the opportunity to interact and share your experiences with other volunteers.

The learning and development opportunities available to you as a manager or supporter range from skills-based training such as first aid, safety, safeguarding and growing scouting through to experience in leadership, management, communication, organisation, decision making, and working as a team.

How it works

The scheme is made up of a series of modules, independent learning units and skills courses that cover each of the six areas of leadership and management in scouting (there's more about this on page 5).

It is a UK-wide scheme for scouting, so the training you complete in one place will be recognised in another.

There are two parts to each of the learning opportunities available to you: learning and validation.

Learning

Learning provides the opportunity to gain or improve the knowledge and skills which you need to develop for your role. The methods available for learning come in a variety of styles and include our weekend courses, learning by doing, evening modules, online learning, short videos, workbooks and small group work. This offers flexibility as you can mix and match and choose the method most appropriate to you.

Prior learning, knowledge and experience are also recognised as forms of learning and are valued within the scheme.

This means that you may not need to complete learning for every aspect of your training. This is especially so if you can clearly show that you are able to meet the learning objectives for a topic by demonstrating your skills in your scouting role through the validation process.

Validation

Validation is a posh word for demonstration! It's the simple process of showing a training adviser (a training adviser is a person who supports you in your training), that you are putting your learning in practice in your scouting role.

This can be done through a variety of methods, and is much easier than it sounds and we provide lots more information on this later in this guide.

The important thing to remember is: Successful validation is required for each module relevant to your role.

Our collective commitment to training

Words cannot express how much we value your personal dedication and commitment to scouting and the lifelong benefits you provide your young people with, which, enable them to succeed in life.

The parents and guardians of our members put unmeasurable trust in us as volunteers. This is because of their resounding belief in the benefits scouting brings to young people to help them succeed in hand with your professionalism and commitment as a volunteer and as a member of a leadership team and the exciting programmes and opportunities you provide.

Without question, they assume that the adults they are entrusting with their children to have the appropriate skills and knowledge to enable them to encompass and support the needs of young people.

When we all accepted our roles in scouting we also accepted and made a commitment to our responsibilities to complete the training necessary for our role within the required time scale for the appointment.

With this in our minds, our county training team is ready to support you and are really looking forward to seeing you complete your training and gain your wood badge

About this guide

This record of your training achievements is designed to be used to guide you through the training you need to complete to gain your manager and supporter wood badge.

The following pages will give you an in-depth overview of your learning path, and information about each area of the learning you need to complete.

Help for you

Early on in your training you will be introduced to members of our team of training advisers. The training adviser's role is to support you through your training.

They will discuss with you the modules you need to complete, and then decide with you whether you need to complete any training for them. From then on you will receive on-going support from one or more training advisers, who will review your progress and ensure that you can put the learning from each module into practice. This process is called validation, more details about this follows later in this guide.

Training for managers & supporters

Manager and supporter training is for:

- Group Scout Leaders
- Assistant Group Scout Leaders
- County and District Commissioners
- Deputy County and District Commissioners,
- County and District Youth Commissioners
- County and District Scouters
- Scout Active Support Managers
- County Training Managers

- Local Training Managers
- District Explorer Scout Commissioners
- County & District Scout Network Commissioners
- Assistant County and District Commissioners that do not support a section

The scheme enables you to gain the skills necessary for you to manage and support the delivery of the programme. specifically, it is intended to:

- a. help you understand scouting and your role within it
- b. give you the skills necessary to carry out your role
- c. improve the quality and quantity of scouting delivered
- d. support you in meeting your own personal development needs

A training scheme to support you

Our adult training scheme is based on a number of key principles

The training scheme is broken into modules, independent learning and skills courses.

The various learning available to ensure you have the skills, knowledge and understanding to be a successful manager or support in scouting.

The Scout Association's adult training scheme allows you to recognise your previous experience from within and outside of scouting when planning your learning.

A range of flexible local learning opportunities are available to you, so you can choose the options that best fit in with you day to day life.

Simple validation methods demonstrate to people in and outside of scouting (and the particularly parents and guardians of our members), that you are trained and recognises your commitment to young people.

Completing learning is a three step process: planning your training , completing learning, validating modules.

Leadership and management in scouting

Scouting believes that volunteers who hold manager or supporter roles should adopt an approach to management that combines the traditional roles of leadership and management. To make this easier we use six main skills areas that relate directly to our scouting environment, these are:

Skill Area	As an effective manager or supporter in scouting you
Providing direction	create a vision for scouting in your group and provide clear leader-
Providing direction	ship to implement that vision
Working with people	create a team spirit and work effectively with people in your group working with people	based on trust and the fundamentals of scouting.
	ensure that goals are achieved, plans are seen through to comple-
Achieving results	tion and that good relationships are maintained with parents of young people in your group and your local community.
Enabling change	encourage people to think of creative ways to improve scouting in
Enabiling change	your group and then implement the appropriate improvements.
Using resources	ensure that sufficient resources and information are available to help
Osing resources	people in your group to provide excellent scouting.
Managing your time	use your time effectively and continue to learn and improve the skills and personal skills	that you bring to your role.

Part of the managers and supporters training is structured around the six core skills of leadership and management in scouting. These focussed learning opportunities are is split into two elements:

Independent Learning

There are fourteen independent learning units. It is important to complete the relevant units before you take part in any of the three manager and supporter skills courses.

Skills courses

There are three skills courses which give you the opportunity to discuss and learn different skills relating to leadership and management in scouting.

The skills courses rely on you having an broad understanding of the independent learning units as a foundation for the course to build on. The independent learning units that support each of the skills courses is detailed further on in this guide. If you need any further advice please speak to your training adviser.

Manager and supporter training framework

The training framework for managers and supporters is made up of four parts:

Getting started

- Essential information (01)
- Personal learning plan (02)
- Safety
- Safeguarding
- The General Data Protection Regulation awareness
- Tools for the role (managers & supporters) (04)

if you are a member of an executive committee

• Introduction to being a trustee

Modules for all appointments (core modules)

- Delivering a quality programme (12A)
- Fundamentals of scouting (05)
- Scouting for all (07)
- Administration (11)
- First aid (10)

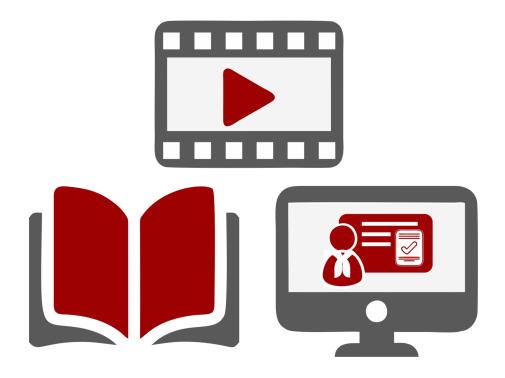

Independent learning

This covers the knowledge you need to understand the key topics of leadership and management and related scouting processes. The learning is accessed via a variety of methods, including videos, online elearning and workbooks.

The following independent learning units are available:

- Building effective teams
- Dealing with difficult situations
- Enabling change
- Keeping, developing and managing volunteers
- Planning for growth
- Leading local scouting
- Managing time and personal skills

- Finding, appointing and welcoming volunteers
- Project management
- Getting the word out
- Supporting the adult training scheme
- Financial and physical resources
- Decision making
- Safety for managers and supporters

Skills courses

There are three skills courses designed to give you the opportunity to discuss and demonstrate different skills relating to leadership and management in scouting.

Taking the lead

Skills of management

Course sessions

- How you lead
- Communication and active listening
- How we work together
- Motivating your team

Other methods

The three steps to gaining your wood badge

Plan the learning you need to complete.

Use the checklists, in this guide, for each module create your personal learning plan.

A training adviser will help you complete this process and add your PLP to your membership record on our national adult membership database (called Compass). 2

Complete your learning using your chosen methods.

Remember to take into account how you learn best and your other commitments.

Most modules offer more than one learning method.

Learning not required

Validate all the modules required for your role using the skills and knowledge you have gained through your learning and experience.

Remember: getting started modules need to be validated within your first 5 months as a leader and the core modules within your first 3 years.

The three steps is more details

Step one: planning your learning

Before you embark on your learning you need to create your training plan we call this a personal learning plan (often referred to as a PLP). This should be created and agreed in partnership with your training adviser.

You may already have skills and knowledge that you have gained through your education, employment, life experiences or other voluntary roles which you can readily apply to scouting. If you have the skills and abilities needed for a module there is no need to do extra learning and you will only be required to validate the module.

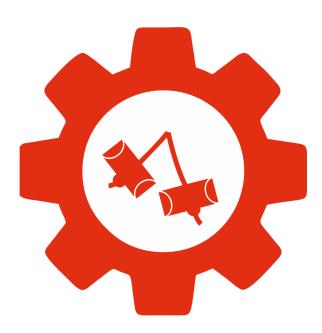

The checklists in this guide will help you to decide if you need to undertake learning for each area of learning. You will find it useful to complete this before you meet with a training adviser to create your personal learning plan.

Meeting your training advisers

A training adviser's job is to discuss with you the modules you need to complete and then decide with you whether you need to complete any training for them. From then on they will meet with you from time to time to support you and check that you have put the learning from each module into practice. This second part of the process is called validation (we prefer the term demonstration). We will look at 'validation' in more detail later in this guide.

Step two: complete learning

There is a number of different ways to access learning and each year we run a programme of training across our region. You can find details of all the training provided by our 6 scout counties and the region on our website at londonscouts.net

Step three: validating (demonstrating) modules Validation is a really simple process, where you show that you have put into practice the (in your scouting), the knowledge and skills you have learnt during your training. You need to validate all of the modules required for your role, regardless of whether you have gained skills through learning or through previous experience.

Don't panic! The word validation sounds a lot worse then it is, we prefer the term demonstration! Generally you will need to demonstrate two activities for the list of criteria for each module, Ideally these should be part of your normal day-to-day role and should not create additional work or be seen as projects! But your demonstration should be backed up by evidence. Guidance on what you can do to demonstrate each module or core skill is given on the module and skills courses pages that follow.

There are a number of methods of validation, for example:

- a visit from a training adviser to observe you carrying out an activity
- a written or verbal statement from an observer
- paperwork created for the role such as programme plans, letters to parents, instructions for activities & risk assessments
- notes from activities or meetings
- obtaining a qualification, such as a first aid certificate or nights away permit
- completing a questionnaire
- discussion with a training adviser
- photos of a validation activity
- videos of a validation activity
- presentations to adults or young people in scouting

These are just some examples of demonstration methods. There are other methods, or variations of these ten, that you might want to use. These can be agreed between you and your training adviser when you meet up.

You need to ensure that any validated modules/ core skills are recorded on your personal learning plan and compass by your training adviser and any evidence you produce is kept safe.

An electronic version of our manager and supporter personal learning plan can be downloaded from our website at londonscouts.net

Validating manager and supporter training

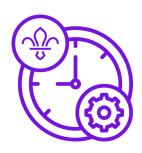

Managers and supporter training is validated against the six core skill areas for leadership and management in scouting plus a safety module.

Each of the seven areas are linked to a number of different learning opportunities and details of these plus the validation criteria for each area can be found later in this guide. The seven areas are:

Working with people

As an effective manager in scouting you create a team spirit and work effectively with people in your area based on trust and the fundamentals of scouting.

Managing time and personal skills

As an effective manager in scouting you use your time effectively and continue to learn and improve the skills that you bring to your role..

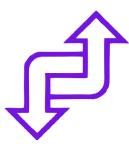

Providing direction

As an effective manager in scouting you create a vision for scouting in your area and provide clear leadership to implement that vision.

Using resources

As an effective manager in scouting you ensure that sufficient resources and information are available to help teams in your area provide excellent scouting.

Enabling change

As an effective manager in scouting you encourage people to think of creative ways to improve scouting in your area and then implement the appropriate improvements.

Achieving results

As an effective manager in scouting you ensure that goals are achieved, plans are seen through to completion and that good relationships are maintained with parents/guardians of young people in scouting and the local community.

Safety for managers and supporters

Safety for Managers and Supporters in Scouting is one of the modules of the Leadership and Management Training scheme.

Were you a young leader?

As part of our youth programme we operate a young leaders' scheme. The scheme gives young people aged 14 to 18 the opportunity to act in a leadership role in either the beaver, cub or scout sections.

As part of this scheme, young leaders are required to do some training to support them in their role. If you have previously been a young leader you may have done training which covered subjects such as the quality programme, safeguarding, first aid, practical skills, challenging behaviour and leadership skills, giving you the skills and knowledge that you needed to act as part of the leadership team as a young leader.

Young leader training does not directly translate to the adult training scheme, and so cannot be used to validate the modules of the scheme. However young leader training provides a good deal of prior learning for the modules of the adult training scheme. More information and guidance on this can be found in the appendix of this guide. Your training adviser should discuss and recognise this prior learning when creating your personal learning plan.

Your CV

There are many other ways in which you can show that scouting is relevant to other areas of your life, and in particular employment skills which you have learnt through scouting. These include things like teamwork, leadership, planning and communication skills, which are highly valued by employers.

More information on how to include the things you do through scouting on your CV, in a way that is relevant to potential employers, is available at scouts.org.uk

The wood badge

The wood badge is the Internationally recognised scouting training insignia awarded to adults by our national headquarters (UKHQ) based at Gilwell Park (in Chingford). Your wood badge will be awarded to you on the completion of the training required for your role.

The wood badge consists of two wooden beads threaded onto a leather thong which is worn with scout uniform.

Getting Started Training

Once you have attended your district welcome meeting and you have received your provisional appointment you can start your training. The first part of this is called 'getting started'. This requires you to complete a series of short online modules aimed at introducing and supporting you to your new role and to start you planning for the future, these are:

- Module 1: Essential information
- Module 2: Your personal learning plan
- Module 4: Tools for the role (manager & supporters)
- Safety
- Safeguarding
- GDPR: general data protection regulation awareness

If you are a member of an executive committee you will also need to complete:

introduction to being a trustee

These modules can be completed in any order, and are aimed at introducing you to your role as a manager or supporter (and if required a trustee), and give you the basic information and skills needed to get you started in scouting.

Remember that you need to complete your getting started training before your full appointment can be issued and it must be completed within five months of your provisional appointment being made.

Module 1: Essential information

This module is the first step into your training and provides you with the basic information that all adults in scouting need to know.

It's independent learning, so you don't have to attend a course to complete it. Simply visit the link below:

The training covers:

- the basics of our adult training scheme
- our movement's history
- the fundamentals of scouting and how to bring them to life.
- our safety and safeguarding policies and keeping people safe while in the scouts
- our structure, and find out where you fit within scouts
- the support that's available to you
- Our equal opportunities policy, and how to make sure every member feels included and able to fully participate in scouts

Checklist:

- Do you know what policy, organisation and rules of the scout association is and where you can find it?
- Have you read the scout association's child protection policy (the 'yellow card')?
- Do you know what to do if you think a child has been abused or if someone tells you that this might be happening?
- ☐ Do you know the equal opportunities policy?
- ☐ Doi you know the safety policy?
- Do you know who to inform if someone is hurt during a scouting activity?
- Do you know where to find the rules and guidance about activities?
- ☐ Do you know who to go to for support?
- ☐ Do you know what the scout Information centre does and how to contact it?
- Can you explain the purpose, principles and method of scouting?

To complete this online elearning module visit scouts.org.uk

To validate this module you need to:

Complete the lessons in the module and the assessment at the end. You need to score 100% in the assessment to unlock the certificate of completion.

A copy of your certificate needs to be sent to your training adviser, local training manager or line manager who will update your training record on Compass.

How to create your PLP

Then meet with a training adviser

Module 2: Personal learning plan

The aim of this module is to develop your Personal Learning Plan (PLP), to allow you to complete the training requirements for your role, taking into account your existing knowledge and skills.

This module includes:

- Creation of a personal learning plan including:
- Identifies the modules relevant to your role
- Assesses if you have to complete learning for this module
- Specifies how this learning will be accessed
- Provides validation ideas
- Provides a time frame for completing your training

Checklist: □ Do I know what training is required for my role? □ Have I identified the most appropriate validation criteria for each module based on my role? □ Have I used the checklist for each module to identify prior learning and assess my learning needs? □ Have I identified the evidence I would like to use to demonstrate my achievement of validation criteria? □ Have I identified my preferred learning method for each module?

To validate this module you need to:

Create and agree your personal learning plan with your training adviser to allow you to complete the training requirements for your role, taking into account existing knowledge and skills.

Helpful hints

Evidence for the validation of this module should be kept until after the award of your wood badge in case it is required for moderation.

It would be useful during the validation process if you make some brief notes to the question in the checklist overleaf – This will then count as part of the evidence for this module.

Evidence you could use to validate this module could include:

ΑII

- Outline the six areas of leadership and management, suggestion of things you could talk through are:
 - Providing direction a project plan for a renovation project, talking through the vision you have created for local Scouting over the next 4 years
 - Working with people a review form for a 'difficult' review, where the outcome ended up being positive
 - Achieving results a project plan for a building project, explaining how you ensured that things were achieved, and work was chased up
 - Enabling change a new communication strategy, or other initiative, that you have introduced to local scouting
 - Using resources successful grant applications or recently put together budgets
 - Managing your time and personal skills examples of training or personal development that you have undertaken recently, or examples of feedback that you have received and how you have acted on it.
- A time management tool, such as the urgent/important matrix or a series of task lists that you use to manage your time.
- List of Scouting colleagues that you know you can go to with queries, demonstrating where you can find useful and relevant information in the Member Resources area of scouts.org.uk.
- Talking through the development plan for your Group, District and County, explaining which bits you were involved in and why certain decisions were made.

Managers

- Talking through the Group, District or County structure that you have put in place, explaining why you have delegated tasks out to certain team members, a skills audit of the members of your team, explaining the skills of each member and why you have given them certain responsibilities.
- Copies of sectional programmes that you have looked over, explaining your suggested additions · Copies of completed self-review tools, such as a quality of programme checker, explaining how you have used it to improve the quality of the programme in local Scouting.

Supporters

- Notes from meetings that you have held, or have attended, with members of your team, explaining your contribution and how you support and manage those you work with · Group, District or County structure chart, explaining your role and how you work with those you support and manage.
- Copies of sectional programmes that you have looked over, explaining your suggested additions · Copies of completed self-review tools, such as a quality of programme checker, explaining how you have used it to improve the quality of the programme in local Scouting.

ΑII

• Additional validation criteria can be created in consultation with a TA if necessary. Any additional validation criteria created will need to check what you have learnt and that you can apply the skills that you have acquired to your role.

Safety

A sense of adventure lies at the heart of our movement and doing things safely is fundamental to everything we do. Knowing about the association's safety policy is a crucial part of keeping scouts safe,

This module covers:

- · the safety policy and your responsibilities for keeping young people and adults in our movement safe
- how to assess and manage risk
- the role of the leader in charge
- what to do in an emergency
- how to report incidents and near misses
- · where to access safety resources, activity rules and guidance for the safe management of activities

Core training

Once you have completed and validated your getting started training you can move on to the other learning you need to complete to gain your manager and support wood badge.

They are lots of ways that you can complete these. To help you to complete the majority of subjects the training covers in a time effective and simple way we run two weekends which we call leadership 1 training and managers and supporters training. This means you can complete most of your core training you need to cover to gain your wood badge over two weekends

Our residential training weekends are the best and easiest way to complete a lot of your training! Not only do the weekends provide you with the opportunity to complete multiple topics in a short space of time but it provides you with the opportunity to meet other people that carry out the same role as you from across our county and provides lots of time to share experiences and ideas along the way.

Covering module 10

Learning for all

Modules: 5, 7, 11, 12A

Independent learning

The knowledge you need to understand the key topics of leadership and management is scouting and related processes.

Taking the lead

Covering
Skills of management, Achieving growth
& Meeting the challenges skills courses

Additional module requirements

For some supporter appointments, there are additional modules which must also be completed as part of their wood badge these are:

Core learning - part 1

Some of the learning provided through our training scheme is applicable to all adults in scout

Modules for all appointments

- Fundamentals of scouting (05)
- Scouting for all (07)
- Administration (11)
- Delivering a quality programme (12A)
- First aid (10)

All leaders, managers and supporters are required to hold a current first aid qualification at the time of gaining their wood badge and at the time of their appointment renewal. However, everyone is encouraged to keep their qualification up to date at all times.

First response training

The minimum standard for this qualification is the scout association's first response, but higher levels of qualification are needed if you are leading certain kinds of adventurous activities. This provision ensures that a minimum standard of first aid knowledge and training takes place across the movement.

All groups undertaking adventurous activities in Terrain Two must have immediate access to someone holding a relevant and current full first aid certificate.

Alternative courses

Any course that is set by a reputable body, and covers the criteria set out below, recognition and length requirements outlined below can be considered as a suitable alternative to a First Response Certificate.

Length of course

- First response 6 hours
- Full first aid 14 hours (two days)

Course topics

All courses must cover the topics below. The level of detail and time spent on each subject will vary, depending on whether it is a first response or full first aid course.

- Principles of first aid and initial response (arriving and managing an incident)
- Initial response to a first aid situation
- Management of an unconscious casualty (child or adult)
- CPR, including technique for children and an explanation of what AED is and how to use it
- Shock
- Causes and treatment of unconsciousness
- Bleeding
- Heat exhaustion, heatstroke, dehydration and hypothermia
- Burns and scalds
- Fractures (ambulance imminent and non-imminent) and soft tissue injuries
- Minor injuries (for example cuts, grazes and nose bleeds)
- Meningitis
- Anaphylaxis (use of Epi pen)
- Spinal injury

In some cases, alternative courses do not cover all of the listed topics, particularly environmental conditions such as hypothermia and CPR for children.

You should take the time to make yourself aware of the signs, symptoms and treatment of these conditions, or undertake additional training in order to cover them. it is often possible for participants to request additional topics to be covered during a first aid course that they are attending.

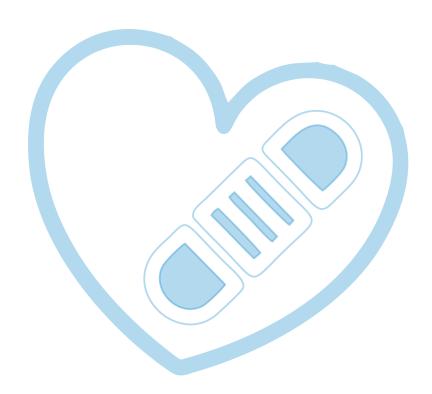

Professions with first aid experience

The scout association does recognise that some professions by the nature of the job will have a first aid element; for example nurses, midwives, police officers, medical practitioners, members of HM armed forces, ambulance care — assistants/paramedics/technicians, etc. to exempt these professions from undergoing more first aid training, they are required to provide evidence of an up-to-date qualification which should meet the criteria for what is considered our minimum standard (as listed above). With regards to 'evidence', this can be a certificate or an official letter confirming the necessary areas have been met.

Scouting for all

UK scouting has a robust equal opportunities policy, which outlines our commitment to ensuring that the movement is open and accessible to all. Within this policy, we also have a commitment to make reasonable adjustments for members with disabilities to equally access scouting.

This is applicable to the adult training scheme. For any adult who may be physically unable to administer first aid e.g. provide CPR, move someone into the recovery position, a suitable reasonable adjustment for an assessor would be that the learner demonstrates they are independently able to successfully instruct or direct another adult (without the skills or knowledge) to physically provide the care on their behalf.

Module 10: First aid

The module is designed for you to gain the skills and knowledge necessary to enable you to manage an incident and provide basic first aid.in any situation.

To validate this module you need to:

Hold a current first aid certificate that meets or exceeds the minimum standard of First Response.

If you hold a first aid qualification that is not First Response. Please pass a copy of your certificate to your Training adviser to validate this module.

Validating manager and supporter training

Managers and supporter training is validated against the six core skill areas for leadership and management in scouting and a safety module.

Each of the seven areas are linked to a number of different learning opportunities and details of the validation criteria for each area can be found on the following pages.

Validation

Validation is the process of finding out how you are putting your learning covered by a module into practice in your role in scouting. All modules for your role require validating regardless of whether you have gained the skills from previous experience, prior knowledge or by planned learning.

The focus should be on you 'doing something' and this will often be backed up by discussion. validation should not be seen as an exam – it is a positive experience in which you will receive supportive feedback.

Working with people

As an effective manager in scouting you create a team spirit and work effectively with people in your area based on trust and the fundamentals of scouting.

Learning opportunities:

Independent Learning

- Finding, appointing and welcoming volunteers

Module 39: Mentoring and coaching

The module aims to provide the skills, knowledge and attitudes necessary to effectively mentor and coach both adults and young people in Scouting Roles.

This module covers:

- Learning styles
- Motivation
- Emotional intelligence and resilience
- Communication
- The GROW Model
- Giving feedback

What learning do you require?

To validate this module you need to:

A 'formal evidence portfolio' is not required to validate as a mentor or coach. However documentary evidence will be required to show that the validation criterion has been achieved.

Example of this evidence may include:

- Discuss the training content and objectives of the pre-course learning with a training adviser
- Complete a mentoring and coaching 'How are we going to work together?' with an adult you are supporting
- Meet with an adult you are supporting for a minimum of two sessions
- Effectively apply the scout association's mentoring and coaching approach with an adult you are supporting
- Effectively apply the GROW module with an adult you are supporting
- Complete a personal reflection log for a period of 3 months
- Any other ideas, subject to agreement with a training adviser

How did you validate this module?

Once you have completed your core learning there will still be opportunities to learn new skills through on-going learning. Adults in scouting are expected to complete a minimum of five hours of on-going learning each year.

On-going learning can be any number of things. In essence any training, learning or development that you complete and can then use in your scouting role is appropriate to count as ongoing learning. For example:

- the maintenance of a current adult first aid qualification/first response certificate
- Learning to use online scout manager
- attending a county recruitment workshop
- any of the supplementary modules, for example module 36: Adjustments to scouts or Module 29: Presenting.

Mandatory ongoing learning

As responsible adults in scouting our needs are constantly changing. To enable us to do our best for our young people it's important that we regularly refresh our learning and refine our skills.

To ensure you have the support, skills and information you need to effectively carry out your role some mandatory ongoing learning needs to be completed at least every three years, these are:

This learning provides the information that you need to know to keep young people and adults safe during your meetings, activities are residential experiences.

It covers the safety policy, how to assess and manage risk, the role of leader in charge, emergency, incident and near miss procedures and how to access safety resources and guidance for the safe management of activities. code of practice (often referred to as the yellow card), how to recognise abuse, how to report concerns and how to make scouts safe.

This learning provides you with the information that you need to know to keep young people and adults safe.

It covers the safeguarding policy, the young people first safeguarding code of practice (often referred to as the yellow card), how to recognise abuse, how to report concerns and how to make scouts safe.

Leaders, managers and most supporters are also required to hold a current first aid certificate (the minimum requirement is our own first response training).

Details of the criteria external first aid courses need to cover can be found at scouts.org.uk (You can find it in the info for volunteers section of the site, head to learning, development and awards.)
